

METHODOLOGICAL ASPECTS OF THE DEVELOPMENT OF AGRICULTURAL RECLAMATION

Introduction. Land reclamation-related initial views, ideas, and actions have a long history in Central Asia. Indeed, according to historical sources, they have traveled a long historical path of 6 thousand of years from the first simple ideas to the most complex teachings. It should be said that these simple ideas formed the basis for the creation of complex teachings. Even in the most ancient sacred books, the culture of land use and water use, economic, legal, social, and even environmental aspects of their use are shown in detail.
