

PROSPECTS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF CITRUS FARMING IN UZBEKISTAN

Introduction. In Uzbekistan, there is a significant problem of ensuring food security and import substitution in the horticultural market. Citrus growing is one of the leading branches of world fruit growing, especially in tropical and subtropical regions on both sides of the equator, reaching 38-44 ° north and south latitudes of the VL. Witkowski, (2003): in the southeast of Asia, in the Mediterranean countries, in America, Africa and Australia.
